PRAISE FOR THE PLAY

J. V. GRIFFIN SAYS "THE VOICE OF CONSCIENCE" HAS "THE PUNCH"

Editor of the Glendale News,
Dear Sir:

It has been the writer's privilege on numerous occasions to appear before the people of this community in a small way, and if such appearances establish a prerogative, he would beg to exercise the same and requests the publication of a few words relative to the play, "The Voice of Conscience," recently presented in the City of Glendale.

It is, indeed, a far cry from the late Paul Armstrong to the author of "The Voice of Conscience," yet, taking into consideration the age, experience and financial backing of the former as compared with the latter, it is very doubtful if Armstrong could have produced a better offering than this one. Not that the "Voice of Conscience" is flawless, or above criticism or beyond improvement, but in the great, vital principles that it strives to inculcate into us—in the intensely human story that it tells and in the good, clean manner of telling it—without recourse to the "risqueness" nor "daring" of modern plays—truly this author has done all that Armstrong could have done; he has produced a play "with a punch" and has done so without injecting any of the "moral problem" stuff into it.

Both players and producers should be heartily commended for their work in this production. Seldom is it that an offering of this nature is so well balanced or played with such cleverness and ability. The people of this community should be, and from all I can hear are, proud of this unassuming young author, and it is to be hoped that his efforts in his chosen calling will be heartily supported .and largely patronized. There is a field for such clever writers and with the proper influences to aid him, he should come to the front rapidly.

The writer's motto is, "Throw bouquets to the living; don't wait until they are dead," and therefore it is with the greatest sincerity and truest courtesy that I doff my hat to the author—Mr. Owen Rhodes.

Yours very truly,
JOS. V. GRIFFIN,
135 W. Acacia Ave.

HONOR MISS ZERR

The XVI Club motored to the home of Mrs. Henry Story of Burbank Saturday to attend the regular meeting. After chatting and tatting an alphabetical game was played and Miss Angeline Zerr, who is soon to be a bride, proved to be the winner and was presented with a tourist bag "brim full" of "happy thoughts." It was the delight of all to see Miss Zerr open the miscellaneous gifts. After "thank yous" and "best wishes and joy" were exchanged all adjourned to the dining room, where a delicious repast awaited.

Throughout the Story home the color scheme was pink, white and green, while bouquets of pink carnations perfumed the air. Those enjoying the afternoon were: The June bride-to-be, Miss Angeline Zerr, Mrs. Hazen Collins, Mrs. Albert Cornwell, Mrs. Joseph McFadden, Mrs. Donald MacBain, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. Elijah Zerr, Miss Fredonia Borthick, Miss Ruby Borthick, Miss Carrie Cornwell, Miss Mae Cornwell, Miss Lillian Shropshire, Miss Birdie Lee Shropshire and the hostess, Mrs. Henry Story.

PARK FOR GLENDALE

H. J. READER TELLS WHAT MIGHT BE DONE TO BEAUTIFY CITY

"There is not the slightest reason," said H. J. Reader, of the Robin Hood tea garden, corner of Fifth and Brand, "why Glendale should not have a public park and gardens rivaling in beauty and popularity the famous Kew gardens in London. Just at present in the month of June those gardens are at the height of their beauty. The air is sweet with the perfume of the flowers and millions of bees are at work while their busy hum fills the atmosphere.

"It would be possible surely to take such a beauty spot as Sycamore park and to convert it into a scene of as great beauty as the famous gardens of England. Doubtless it would take some time; but we have here in California a climate that would make it a matter of easiness to create such a garden spot in our midst. There is always plenty of water running down the canyon and it would never be difficult to have irrigation. There are little nooks and shady spots that could be converted into scenes of entrancing beauty.

"It is really wonderful to think that by leaving the busy heart of the city of London, by any of the three roads — through Shene, through Wimbledon or by Richmond—one can be out of the glare of the grimy stone and brick and in a brief time stand within a center of country greenness and floral loveliness that has few equals in the world. Why could not Glendale have a park and garden of equal loveliness if not of equal extent?

"Fancy yourself in the midst of that garden center at the present time. You could take either the walk that leads north or the one that leads south. From Kew green a magnificent blaze of rhodendrons strikes the eye. Some rare Chinese flowering shrubs are also to be seen. There are large horsechestnut trees with their magnificent green fronds and many specimens of rare trees such as the wild service, Jamesias, fothergillias, and some curious Chinese shrubs are there also.

"There, too, is a singular and attractive yellow-flowered herb growing in profusion. That is woad, from the leaves of which the ancient Britons used to extract the blue dye wherewith they stained themselves blue.

"It should be possible in a canyon like Sycamore to have a "Water Garden" of as large dimensions as that in Kew, where the floating fronds of the Ranunculus lingua is to be seen, growing in the shallow marshes, and the serpent's tongue buttercup and a hundred other common plants that are full of beauty when seen in their full blaze of June glory.

"How lovely it would be to have in Glendale a "Rock Garden" like that at Kew, where arctic and alpine poppies (Papaver nudicaule) grow in profusion! Here too is the edelweiss, that noble white Swiss flower that grows among the rocks as if that were its natural habitat.

"We could have a marsh on the wet bank of which could luxuriate alpine bog-plants, adder's tongue, one of the glossies of ferns and the pink bells of the beautiful linnaea? All these grow in Kew gardens in great profusion; but they would grow just as well in Glendale if this city would only acquire one of the adjacent canyons before it is too late.

"Glendale could at the present time acquire such a stretch of ground at a reasonable rate. Later on it will be difficult to purchase such a place without paying exorbitant rates. On such a spot we could have as fine greenhouses as they have at Kew, where the houses are 150 feet in height and where tropical palms of every kind are grown. Through the park could be little teahouses such as they have at Kew and in the days when this Pacific center has become one of the great centers of population such a place would be as great a blessing and as much a thing of beauty as the famed English gardens. Now is the time to see about it."

RAN INTO A JITNEY

As Mrs. F. H. Mellus, 1447 W. First street, was driving her auto along West Broadway, Wednesday night, she ran into a jitney bus driven by A. H. Hamilton. Hamilton was transporting two ladies and had stopped just opposite the Pacific Electric depot, about eight feet from the curb. Mrs. Mellus, who had thought that Hamilton was going ahead, was unable to stop her car in time and the front guard struck the rear guard of the jitney, slightly bending it and smashing the rear lamp. The front guard of the Mellus car was slightly bent.

FRENCH ADMIT CAPTURE OF FORT VAUX

GERMANS HAVE FORCED THEIR WAY INTO ONE OF THE OUTLYING DEFENSES OF VERDUN REGION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, June 8.—It was admitted today officially that the Germans had forced their way into Fort Vaux, after many weeks of bombardment. The French held on to the fort with great tenacity, making the Germans pay heavily for every inch of ground gained and finally retiring when the place was no longer tenable.

AUSTRIAN WAR OFFICE ADMITS DEFEAT

RUSSIANS DRIVE TEUTONS BACK THREE MILES ON FRONT IN EASTERN GALICIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, June 8.—It was admitted by the Austrian war office today that the Russians had compelled the Austrian army to retreat three miles on a front of 200 miles on the Bessarabian border and northwest of Bukowina. The Russian attacks were of the most violent character. Their troops advanced in wave after wave in the face of a destructive fire. Hand-to-hand fighting of the most savage character took place on the Bukowina section near Okna.

GERMANS ADMIT FURTHER SEA LOSSES

TEUTONS ACKNOWLEDGE THAT BATTLE CRUISER LUTZOW AND SMALL CRUISER ROSTOCK WERE SUNK

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, June 8.—An official German statement which has reached Amsterdam admits that the battle cruiser Lutzow and the small cruiser Rostock were sunk in the battle of the Skagerack. The report states that no mention of these losses was made in earlier reports "because of military considerations." The British blockade of Germany continues unbroken and the German fleet is still in refuge at its Wilhelmshaven base.

REPUBLICAN PARTY DEFINES PLATFORM

STANDS FOR AMERICANISM, ADEQUATE ARMY AND NAVY AND INDUSTRIAL AND MILITARY PREPAREDNESS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, June 8.—The Republican platform, in addition to taking a strong stand for Americanism, will declare for a navy that need fear no other in the world. It will advocate a standing army of size sufficient to form a nucleus for an effective mobile force in case of war. There is no mention of Prohibition. It urges Preparedness, both military and industrial. There is no mention of federal militia and no mention of compulsory military service. In its advocacy of "Americanism" it demands that everybody shall be united under one flag and have one faith—America. In regard to American policy in Mexico it declares for the safeguarding of American life and property always. Industry is to be protected by duties reasonable in amount. It also declares for the protection of the country's business and the strict regulation of transportation.

GERMAN USE OF SHELLS UNPRECEDENTED

TEUTON BOMBARDMENT ON THE WESTERN FRONT CONTINUES NIGHT AND DAY WITHOUT INTERRUPTION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, June 8.—It is believed that the Germans are contemplating some big movement on the western front, probably on the British lines. Their artillery has not ceased night and day to bombard the British and French positions. The roar of the big mortars never ceases and the use of shells is unprecedented. Under cover of this extraordinary shelling ceaseless attacks are being made on the French and British lines, resulting in infinitesimal gains and enormous losses.

SECOND DAY OF REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION MADE PERMANENT—CONVENTION TAKES RECESS TILL 4 P. M.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, Coliseum, June 8.—Senator Harding was made permanent chairman and the temporary organization was made permanent. After the Republican Committee on Resolutions had adopted a suffrage plank by 26 to 21 those who opposed it demanded the presence of seven absentees. Delegate Harrison of New York moved a recess until 4 p. m. The motion was carried at 1:33 p. m.

ROOSEVELT IS THEME OF PROGRESSIVES

CHICAGO, Auditorium, June 8—The Progressive convention opened today at 3:35 p. m. The temporary organization was made permanent and Raymond Robbins was continued as chairman. Garfield of Ohio moved to appoint a committee to confer with the Republicans but was hooted. Parker, at Perkins' solicitation, agreed to postpone Roosevelt's nomination till tomorrow if it would be possible to control the delegates.

TO SAVE THE CHILDREN

MRS. ELLA RICHARDSON TELLS OF NEW YORK'S WORK IN PLAYGROUNDS

"When in New York attending the Convention of Woman's clubs, I made inquiries as to the work being done there in the matter of providing playgrounds for the children of the poor. I found that the matter had interested the various organizations engaged in social work throughout the city and that the kindergarten and the playground had been found powerful instruments for the salvation of the children.

"In particular I found that the Parole Commission of the City of New York had interested itself in this phase of work and I am able to send for publication the following letter from Mrs. Davis, chairman of that commission:

" 'Fifteen years of work in penal institutions with the study of individual cases which that implies, has thoroughly convinced me of the great necessity for improved educational methods, particularly with the younger children. It is of vital importance if we do not wish to have this continual stream going in and out of the penitentiary and prison, that our children be started right. For the great mass of children, particularly those whose home surroundings are for economic or other reasons, unfit to give them the very elementary training, in their first few years, the playground is of most importance.

" 'The children of the rich can have their mothers, plus trained governesses, the children of the middle classes have developmental influences of good homes, the children of the mothers who go out to work day after day should have playgrounds. It will pay the State in the end.'

KATHERINE BEMENT DAVIS,
Chairman New York Parole Commission.

SOUTH AMERICAN EVERGREEN

F. H. Lowe of 1441 Patterson avenue says in reference to the Evergreen Raspberry (Rubis Ellipticus), an account of which was given in Wednesday's Glendale Evening News, that he has one of those wonderful shrubs growing in his garden. He obtained the cutting from Los Angeles about fourteen months ago and in that time it has grown and developed until it now occupied a space of 100 square feet. When fully grown the shrub occupies a space of 400 square feet and reaches a height of fifteen feet or more.

Mr. Lowe also says that the evergreen raspberry is a native of South America, being found in the Upper Orinoco region, in Venezuela, and in some parts of Brazil. It is not only evergreen, but it bears fruit all the year round. It is sometimes called the "Golden Orinoco." The berries have a very distinctive and pleasing flavor and altogether the shrub is a picturesque and valuable addition to any garden.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Friday; foggy along the ocean; westerly winds.

CARE OF THE BIRDS

SCIENTIFICALLY BUILT BIRD HOUSE TO BE SEEN AT 1111 W. BROADWAY

The Bird and Birdhouse committee of the Glendale Garden society held a meeting last night at headquarters. Those present were: C. J. Orff, chairman; Miss E. Forest, Mr. Wm. Smith, Miss Corinne Orff, Edgar D. Wolbach. Peter Oliver was unavoidably absent. The following duties were assigned to the committee members: W. Smith, publicity; P. Oliver, construction, material and varieties of bird houses; Edgar Wolbach, information regarding species and seasons of local birds; Miss Forest, school visits and lectures; C. J. Orff, prizes.

All those interested in birds and bird houses are invited to ask any of the above committee for information or advice. By writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, the Formers' Bulletin, 609, can be obtained free of charge. This bulletin is entitled, "Bird Houses and How to Build them." It will be the business and pleasure of the members of this committee, and of the president, Mrs. Nanno Woods, to collect literature and knowledge on this and relating subjects; they will be ready at all times to help both adults and children.

Monday, June 13, is the day Mrs. Nanno Woods must know how many children from each school are puting out birdbaths in their own front or back yards. Perhaps Mrs. Woods will find time to go round and inspect some of the bird baths. Columbus Avenue School put up a blackboard for the children to write their names and there were so many names that a second blackboard has had to be utilized.

Sixth Street school, too, is doing well; some pupils told Miss Waite they had gone to look at Mrs. Seaman's birdbaths to get ideas. Mr. Kennedy, principal of Tropico school, called at the Garden Society headquarters Wednesday. It looks as though Tropico children were also interested in birdbaths. It will be very exciting to know which school wins in this birdbath competition.

The prize, a bird house to be erected on the grounds of the winning school on Wednesday, June 11, is on view at Garden society headquarters, 1111 W. Broadway.

Teachers are asked to remind the children about the other competition. The girl and the boy writing the best essay or story about the bird bath they put out, about the birds that came to it, etc., will be given a box of chocolates. These essays or compositions must be sent in to Headquarters on or before the last day of June; the best writings will be published in the Glendale Evening News. Any child living anywhere may compete. Extra prizes may be given, if the number and merit of the compositions warrant it.

READING CIRCLE

Thirty-one women were present Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Toll on Kenneth Road at the regular weekly meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle. Of these, Mrs. E. D. Yard was present as a visitor, and Mrs. George H. Marsh returned after an absence of nine weeks, caused by the serious accident to her son, who is now well on the way to recovery.

The circle has decided to continue the regular weekly meetings throughout the summer, making them "out-of-door" affairs largely. Many of the mothers will be in town for a large part, if not all, of the summer, and will enjoy the pleasant out-door experience. Little children have been brought by mothers to all of the meetings, and have enjoyed playing under the trees during the reading period; when the summer comes, more little people who have been in the lower grades at school, will accompany their mothers. It is the plan of the circle to have some definite form of entertainment for these children during the summer meetings. The plan will be definitely formulated at the next meeting; it will be something interesting, educational and fitted to the age and development of the children, that will be adopted.

A searching review of the subject matter of "Love and Law in Child Training" was given; at the next meeting it will be completed, and written reviews of the book will be submitted by the members, these to be forwarded to the National Bureau of Education.

On Wednesday, June 14th, the circle will take up the reading of the fourth book, "Children's Rights," by Kate Douglas Wiggin. This book will complete one group of the books in the course. After this is finished, the ethical education of children will probably be the topic considered

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1916

TURK DEFENDS MASSACRES

Dr. Ahmed Amin, a Turk of many excellent qualities and attainments, defends Turkish dealings with the Armenians on the ground that the Christians were traitors. Dr. Amin is a graduate of Columbia university, New York. He says that he regrets that the American people have already given their verdict in favor of the Armenians without hearing the Turkish side of the question.

There is, of course, some truth in what Dr. Amin says; but there is nothing that can be said that would justify the slaughter of innocent old men, women and children. It may be worth while, however, to hear what the Turk has to say. Historically, he maintains, the Turks were the most humane conquering race imaginable. They had every opportunity of assimilating the conquered races by force but instead they gave them freedom of religion, language and free community organization.

"Had the Turks," he says, "behaved as the Spaniards have against dissenters in religion or race, there would have been no Armenians or Armenian question today. After the Young-Turkish revolution in 1908, the Christians acquired absolute equality with the Turks. They soon made it clear that their desire for equal rights was only as a means to the end of national independent existence."

Dr. Amin goes on to state that the Armenians established secret societies, made a large revolutionary organization in the country and distributed arms and bombs among their members. This the Turks would not tolerate. They held that their first duty was to insure the independence of Turkey. Among the non-Turkish races the Armenians were the nearest to the Turks in regard to their spoken language and social habits. Several decades ago when they had not begun their revolutionary activities they enjoyed the full confidence of the Turks and were always called by the Turkish press "our faithful fellow-citizens, the Armenians."

Dr. Amin also says that in abusing the confidence of the Turks, the Armenians went further than the other Christian races. During the present war, he maintains, they did not shrink from open treason and tried to endanger from within the existence of their country, which was engaged in a fight for life or death at four different fronts, with powerful enemies.

This, he maintains, was what exasperated the Turks, who had borne many things from the Armenians with exemplary patience. Indeed, to listen to the defense offered by Dr. Amin, one would imagine that the Armenians had been guilty of some brutal attack on the Turks and that they were a formidable nation armed to the teeth.

As far as evidence has hitherto been given it would appear that when the Turks found themselves at liberty by reason of the war to do as they pleased within their own domains they began a systematic extermination of the Armenians. The ablebodied men were immediately drafted into the Turkish ranks and sent to the front. The old men, women and children were taken in droves out of their cities and sent on the highways, under the pretext of being taken to some other locality.

On the road the old men were knocked on the head with rifle butts, or shot. The aged women were thrown into the rivers as the exiles crossed and none but the young women and children were spared. These were taken to Turkish harems and families where their identity is completely lost. It will be difficult for the Turks to gainsay this evidence, most of which comes from American missionaries, eyewitnesses of the scenes.

COMPOSURE AND POISE IN LIFE

Where anxiety and trouble occupy life there is no strength. Trouble to a great extent is our own creation. Whether it be real trouble arising out of one's own acts or imaginary trouble arising out of the habit of worrying it is equally detrimental to all that is great and excellent in human life. There is no strength in worry or anxiety. The true symbol of peace is not the dead calm of the frozen arctic sea but rather the repose of the little bird on the branch that overhangs the cataract.

Great strength dwells in quiet and repose. In fact, where there is much noise and volubility there is generally some weakness to conceal or some falsehood to cover up. Great strength relies on itself and pays no attention to outside opinion when convinced that it is in the right. In its quiet and unmatched confidence it is like the great ocean, with its profound depths, its life-breathing tides and the unmeasured force that lies under its calm.

Those who have attained to the secret of composure and poise in life are like the mighty mountains that are ever serene and majestic in their sublime calm.

"Like some tall cliff that rears its awful form;
Swells from the vale and midway leaves the storm;
Around whose base while rolling clouds are spread,
Eternal sunshine settles on its head."

Like the stars in their course the mighty souls of the world move along silently without haste and without stay, in bright and ceaseless labor, like stars shining unto all worlds except themselves. This strength partakes of the divine. It is part of the divine nature. It reveals character and power. It gives permanence and stability to human nature and it preserves those who possess it in perfect peace.

Concentration of mental development is the result of this constant cultivation of an earnest and quiet spirit. To souls that are daily drilling themselves into this strength there come many secret crowns and garlands of reward. All the irritations of this complex life fall without effect against this armor of proof. The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune glide off the soul protected in this fashion as shafts off the ancient Milan coats of mail.

Souls that are schooled in this field of training do not yield at the first impact of misfortune. Rather they look to see how what is called misfortune may yet work out for them something that may become of eternal value. There is no disaster possible to the soul of composure and poise. Above the din and noise of life such souls hear ever many voices of God's universe that tell of the better things that are in store for those who have ears to hear, eyes to see and minds to understand.

In this way all things minister to the constant strengthening and development of those strong souls who seek in all the wondrous manifestations of divine strength that which is beautiful and joyous and immortal. In such souls there is a constant readiness to deal with life's difficulties as well as with its legitimate pleasures and enjoyments. Conditions that have not been anticipated, errors of judgment on the part of others, quick words and hasty declarations, loss of temper, exasperating remarks, untruthful statements—all are met in the spirit of calm and composure that marks the soul that has been tempered in the forge of life.

NEW FEDERAL SEAMAN'S LAW

Under the new federal seamen's law, ships cannot put to sea from an American port without the requisite number of registered seamen. Objections were made to the law because it was claimed it would work a hardship on trading vessel operators in that they could not readily secure registered seamen in some ports, this difficulty tending to hold up their shipping.

Here is an illustration of how the seamen's law is operating. A few days ago the United States Secretary of Commerce received a telegram from the captain of a schooner at Boothbay, Maine, saying that he could not find the required number of registered seamen at the port, and asking for permission to clear with what help he could employ. The port officials had refused him clearance because he did not have the required number of seamen. The department immediately notified the port officials to make an investigation, asked the department of labor to notify through its representatives at Bath and other nearby ports any registered seamen there and send them to Boothbay, and gave assurance to the Captain that the government was looking out for him.

Within a short time a competent crew was obtained for this captain and other cases were handled in the same fashion. Frequently the department has found captains of vessels lacking in diligence in their efforts to live up to the requirements of the law and such captains are under the suspicious eyes of watchful agents of the department.

According to Secretary Redfield, the new law is working out to the benefit of the commercial fleet of the United States. It is also bringing about the employment of American sailors instead of foreigners. When war breaks out, if it ever should break out, with some trans-Pacific or trans-Atlantic power, it will be found a great blessing that American ships are manned by American seamen and not by foreigners.

THE BREAKING DAY

Peeped up daisies here and there,
Here, there, and everywhere;
Rose a hopeful lark in the air,
Spreading out towards the sun his breast;
While the moon set solemn and fair
Away in the West.
"Up, up, up," called the watchman lark,
In his clear reveillee: "Harken, oh, hark!
Press to the high goal, fly to the mark.
Up, O sluggard, new morn is born;
If still asleep when the night falls dark,
Thou must wait a second morn."
—Christina Rossetti.

Mrs. Ella Richardson, who is at present in the East, where she has been attending the General Federation of Woman's Clubs convention, writes that she is having a very busy and profitable time. Last Saturday twenty-two automobiles took part of the visiting delegates on a tour to Brooklyn, where they visited the Eagle newspaper building and ascended the great tower whence they obtained a magnificent view of the Manhattan sky line and a thousand other sights to be seen from that height. They visited the famous Plymouth church and went to Coney island, where they had luncheon. The California Federation of Woman's clubs distributed thousands of copies of a very tastefully designed and printed booklet detailing the life and qualifications of Mrs. J. E. Cowles, candidate for the presidency of the General Federation.

J. O. C. CONCERT A SUCCESS

A very unique and interesting program was rendered by the Orpheus male quartet to a large and appreciative audience at Butler's hall, Tuesday evening. This concert was given under the auspices of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church. The various numbers were given with such a degree of ability as to call for encore after encore. Among the special features were the solos by Messrs. Glasse and Campbell, and humorous readings by Mr. Clayton. The harmony of music together with the apt rendition of each number served to place the quartet among those holding national reputations. This entertainment but speaks the wisdom of those having it in charge and is one of the many to be given by the J. O. C. class during the summer months, the proceeds of which are to be used toward the new church enterprise and for carrying on charitable work.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

What might have been a very bad accident but fortunately only resulted in a smashed auto door and a broken wagon took place Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. S. C. Bierbower, of 922 Fairview avenue, was driving with a friend in a Reo auto, in the vicinity of Brand boulevard and San Fernando road. At that point a couple of Japs in a Ford laundry wagon tried to pass at a good speed between the Reo and a large wagon. The consequence was that the laundry wagon was badly smashed while the door of the Reo was broken and other minor injuries inflicted on the body of the auto. Fortunately no one was injured.

Howard Alston and William Rising of Edendale paid a visit to the Foothills district Wednesday in their new auto. Howard Alston's mother, Mrs. William Alston, was with them. Mrs. Alston, who was recently very ill, is now greatly improved and enjoyed the pure air of the foothills and the kindly greetings of her many friends in this neighborhood, where she resided until quite recently.

Mrs. F. B. Crouch, 916 N. Central avenue, who recently submitted to a minor operation at Thornycroft Sanitarium, is getting along nicely and is expected to be out in a week.

Miss Mary Canaris, who was widely known throughout the Foothills district as the proprietor of the dry goods business in Logan's store, has removed her business to Los Angeles, where she has opened a store on San Pedro street.

CONSOLIDATION QUESTION

The voters of Tropico presented a petition to its board of trustees at their regular meeting, Tuesday evening, for the purpose of calling an election for annexation to Glendale. The Tropico trustees were approximately a unit in favor of the election, and only one dissenting vote registered. The trustees also recommended that several booths be placed in various parts of the city for the convenience of the voters. Nearly two-thirds of the voters having signed the petition, it is generally conceded that the proposed annexation will carry.

LA CRESCENTA

There is to be a Sack Social given by the Ladies' Aid society of the La Crescenta church, June 19. The money raised is to help pay for piano. A musical and literary program will be enjoyed by those present. Refreshments will be served. Everybody come.

The Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. E. F. Archer. The presence of Dr. Archer and Mr. Nettleton added so much to the pleasure of the club, that it was unanimously decided to hold alternate meetings in the evening, making it possible for these gentlemen and others to attend.

The get-together meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association was a decided success. Not only was the attendance large but many new members were enrolled. After the usual business had been cleared, Mr. H. S. Bissell gave a most interesting talk on the achievements of the La Crescenta Improvement association. Mr. Bissell mentioned one of the latest being a new polling place for La Crescenta. Refreshments and an informal reception to the new members closed the evening. The next meeting will be held on the first Thursday in July. Any one living in or having any interest in the La Crescenta valley, should join this association immediately.

The La Canada and La Crescenta valleys are certainly the feeders of the city of Glendale. But does Glendale appreciate the fact. If so why is Glendale avenue not made a first-class street from Verdugo road to Broadway, giving this valley a direct drive.

The directors of the La Crescenta Water Co. met on Monday, June 5, at the residence of H. D. Johnson. The president and treasurer audited the monthly business of the company. They have just finished puting the tunnel in fine condition, having cemented a portion of same which is 600 feet long.

Mr. R. A. Walton has been having a gang of men cleaning up on Montrose avenue. La Crescenta hopes that this work will continue and the property will be subdivided to be sold.

It is persistently rumored that the Glendale-Montrose railway has been sold to the Salt Lake Railroad Co.

If any one wishes to see what can be done on an acre of ground in La Crescenta, they will be agreeably surprised when they visit Mr. W. Wise. His acre is planted to fruit trees, berries and a patch of alfalfa all of which are thriving wonderfully.

Last Monday a party of La Crescenta hikers went six miles up the Big Tejunga. They made an all-day trip of it, leaving the La Crescenta store at 6 a. m. and returning at 8 p. m. They enjoyed lunch in the canyon. Those who made the trip were Mesdames Van Huklyn, Lewenstein, Grey, Wetherbee, Haines, Volker, Bertrand, Miller, Cloud and Welborn; Mr. Hopping and Mr. Wise. It was the longest hike and the largest crowd that ever went on a hiking trip out of La Crescenta.

Parent-Teacher Entertainment

The Parent-Teacher association gave the spring entertainment at the school house auditorium, Friday, June 2. The program was opened with a piano solo, The Gloria, from Mozart's 12th Mass, by Mr. Robert Pierson. This was followed by songs by Mrs. Sutherland, whose selections were as beautiful as her thoroughly trained voice. Mr. Fritz Adam from the Fairmount Hotel amused all with his mandolin, banjo and charming voice, and then the dramatic section came forth in the Obstines Family.

Miss Mollie Brown and Mr. Herbert Scheuner as the newlyweds were without a doubt the lovingest couple until the bride proved obstinate. Mrs. Grey and Mr. Adams, as staid and sober middle-aged mother and father-in-law, a perfectly happy pair until mother proved obstinate. Mrs. Hawkins as Lucy the maid and Mr. Caldwell as James the butler, a little overbearing 'tis true, but just the thing for obstinate Lucy. Her fainting fit was the perfection and finish of the play.

Mr. Pierson's second number was a selection from Flotow's "Martha." The girls of the 7th and 8th year gave the Norwegian Folk Dance. Mrs. Sutherland's songs again charmed and enthralled the crowd. This was followed by La Cacheca dance by Susie Verdugo and Lena Urquidez, and the last number was the minuet with John and Margaret Leenhouts in Colonial costume and wigs. Their dance was a perfect picture and one that will linger long in the memories of all who saw it for its beauty and artistry. The program closed with a tableaux of all the girls from the folk dance, the Spanish dancers and the minuet couple grouped before Old Glory and the audience joining with them in "America."

All agree that it was one of the most delightful, artistic and thoroughly enjoyable evenings that have been given in La Crescenta, and quite a sum was netted for the Parent-Teacher association treasury.

Marriages have taken place upon mountain tops, in the moonlight, within canyons, on horseback and at the seashore, but it has remained for Miss Mae Anderegg, a Pasadena girl, to think out an entirely new and novel setting for her wedding to Gordon Blackwell of Glendora, says the Los Angeles Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Baldridge of La Crescenta, stepfather and mother of Miss Anderegg, have a pueblo, or Aztec-style home at that place. The roof is broad and flat and overgrown with vines. Miss Anderegg has chosen this spot for her ceremony, and the evening of July 12.

The bride and bridegroom, accompanied by the wedding guests, will climb to the roof of the house, and mount the tiles. With the moon and candles for illumination, the service will be read. According to the calendar, the evening of July 12 is to be one of brilliant illumination, and it was partly for this reason that the date was chosen by the bride for her novel "roof" wedding.

Invitations have been extended to a number of Pasadena friends and relatives, and all will go back in July to the days of their youth and enjoy the lark of climbing to the roof-top, as well as the more serious and important occupation of witnessing the wedding ceremony.

SUNLAND

A party composed of Arthur Akins, John Miller and Ed Winsor left by team, on Wednesday, for Imperial Valley, where they expect to find employment during the harvesting of the crops.

Mr. Gewin Newcomb of Los Alamitos, visited his sisters, Mrs. G. G. Corey and Mrs. Rowley, on Sunday.

Children's Day will be observed at the Baptist church on Sunday morning, at which time an appropriate program will be given. All will be made welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lancaster spent Tuesday in Pasadena.

The value of the Monte Vista public park, with its beautiful oaks, is becoming so widely known that not a week passes without some organization picnicking in this pleasant spot. On last Saturday the State of Maine association of Pasadena was represented by a large number, who came in trucks and autos for an outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Catt entertained with a delightful luncheon on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Solstrom and Miss Wilson. Other guests were Messrs. Earl Sims and Eustace Rowley.

The graduating exercises of the Monte Vista school were held in the Park on Friday evening. Longfellow's "Hiawatha," arranged as a play, was given by the members of the eighth grade class, assisted by other members of the school. With the natural setting of the grand oaks around and behind the stage, a wigwam, hung with skins of wild animals, and a camp fire under the large kettle, the pupils seemed to catch the spirit of the play and gave a splendid production of the poem. Herbert Brandstetter as Hiawatha, Dorothy Rowley as Minnehaha and May Kirschman as Nokomis, were ably assisted by Quinnell Adams, Azalea Baily, Roland Percey and Hazel Huse in minor parts. The wedding feast with its Indian dance, and the famine were especially realistic. The Valley band gave a number of musical selections and the exercises closed with the presenting of the diplomas by A. Adams, Jr., president of the board, and a song by the class. Those receiving diplomas were May Kirschman, Dorothy Rowley, Hazel Huse, Gertrude Schroeder, Herbert Brandstetter and Joe Eagler.

The grammar school enjoyed a picnic in the Tejunga canyon, accompanied by the Misses Ball. The pupils tramped to a point about four miles, where a picnic lunch was spread and enjoyed and the afternoon spent in wading and games.

Miss Menita Huse spent Sunday as the guest of friends in Los Angeles.

THE LINNET'S SONG

On the hawthorn spray
The Linnet makes her temperate lay;
She haunts no solitary shade,
She flutters o'er no sunshine mead;
No lovelorn griefs depress her song,
No raptures lift it lordly high,
But soft she trills amid the aerial throng
Smooth, simple strains of soberest harmony. —John Mason.

TO HIS CANOE

Her curved frame is wrought of the fir-tree
And birch-bark the hue of the sun.
As over the carry we trudge along
Lizard-like, both seem as one.
Though buoyant as air, she is steady
When the tempest comes bellowing through;—
How she shoots, as the lake roars and whitens,
My faithful, tried, speedful canoe!
—Alfred B. Street.

SMOKE THAT BLACKENS

A reader of the Monitor has sent in the following interesting discovery. It is not gas, but smoke from the match, that blackens kettles. Through the knowledge of this fact much scouring work may be saved. Move the saucepan to one side, or wait to put it on the stove until the burner is lighted, and you will find that ordinary washing will make the outsides of the kettles clean.

BURBANK

Burbank, 1; Los Angeles, 3

Sounds like a game played by a bunch of major league stuff or ex-Federal outlaws, with Los Angeles pulling down only 3 hits and allowing us 2 and only a couple of errors marked against us, it sure "hears" like real ball, and the first game of the reconstructed bunch at that.

To actually see aforesaid game is a horse of a foreign color, however. The game was a whisper from stern to mizzenmast. If a man or man and boy got running bases on the one hand the contending hands put up good defense till the strain was over, then laid down and let Harriet finish the chores.

No one seemed to know just what the lumber near home plate was meant to be used for and when a husky picked a stick up and wigwagged it over the doormat it wasn't taken seriously, as everybody knew he was jokin'. However, Hap O'Conner, L. A.'s disabled received, was a brilliant exception, and another gent away along in the steenth inning came to life long enough to straighten out a nice fat one over in the rye, and the game was at once stowed away with the butter and other perishable dry goods. Aside from Wout's attempt at erasing the 3rd base chalk line when he came home on his map, there was hardly any comedy stuff pulled.

No laughs, no plays suitable for cheers and a coolish breeze blowing and you have the reason of a near panic when a Ford honked by.

Trustees Meeting

The regular meeting of the board of trustees of the City of Burbank was held at the city hall, Tuesday afternoon, June 6, there being present W. A. Blanchard, president; Trustees W. L. Pollock, J. W. Forbes, E. S. Hogle and R. L. Linn.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

The matter of gas heaters for the new city hall was taken up, it being necessary for the contractor to arrange for the vents as the work proceeded. The matter was left in the hands of the heating committee, of which Mr. Pollock is chairman, to decide which of two kinds of heaters were most suitable for the requirements.

A communication was read from C. E. Salisbury with reference to services rendered at the time of the annexation of the new territory to the city in January, 1914, Mr. Salisbury also filing a demand in the sum of $200. This matter was presented to the board by the Chamber of Commerce some time ago, but the question arose as to the legality of the board having the authority to pay the bill, inasmuch as it was not known if the acting board at the time of the service did employ him. At this meeting the same question arose and the board, appreciating the services of Mr. Salisbury and wishing to pay the bill if the legality of doing so can be established, the president appointed Trustees Pollock and Linn a committee to confer with members of the old board as to their intentions in regard to the matter at the time.

A letter received from the Automobile Club of Southern California, with reference to the placing of a fence or white guard rail on San Fernando boulevard, west of Burbank, where the public highway swings across the Southern Pacific tracks, was read. There have been many accidents at this point and a fence so placed would be illuminated by the headlights of machines, and would cause a slowing down at that point. Trustees Hogle and Forbes were appointed a committee to look into the matter.

The contract between the City of Burbank and Cecil Lockwood, contractor for the construction of the new reservoir, was presented and the president was authorized to sign same for all members of the board.

Cecil Lockwood, as contractor for the new reservoir, filed his bonds, which were rejected, it being found that C. A. Pogue, as an employe of the city, could not go on the bonds. Mr. Lockwood was given another week in which to secure other bondsmen.

The following bills were allowed and warrants ordered drawn:

CITY HALL 1916

P. A. Farley	$1350.00

Resolution No. 105 was read and adopted, declaring the intention of the board to close up, vacate and abandon for public street or alley purposes, that certain alley, running easterly and westerly from Second street to Third street and lying along the rear of lots one to twenty, both inclusive, of Block "D," subdivision 49.

A map was presented by Mr. Biggar, showing a proposed subdivision of a portion of lots one and two of fractional section 2, twonship 1, range 14w San Bernardino base and meridian. The matter was referred to the city engineer, to report on at next meeting.

The Building and Plumbing Inspector's report was accepted and filed, as follows: Buildings—W. S. Faxon for Burbank Cannery Co., cannery building, $1500; D. M. Finlayson, residence, $1250. Plumbing—J. H. Bark, residence, $40; D. M. Finlayson, residence, $125.

On motion of Trustee Hogle, seconded by Trustee Pollock, that the office of city recorder be declared vacant, the question was put to the board and Trustees Hogle, Pollock and Linn voting "Yes," it was so declared. The president asked if there had been applications for the position and Trustee Pollock presented a petition from W. A. Thompson. As no other applications had been filed, Mr. W. A. Thompson was, on motion, declared duly appointed to the office of city recorder.

Mrs. W. F. Craig came before the board in behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary, asking that the board of trustees attend in a body the exercises to be held at the park on Orange Grove avenue Thursday evening.

The matter of closing the city hall on Saturday afternoons was taken up, but no action was taken.

O. S. Greenwood, city marshal, brought up the matter of placing a license upon the jitney busses operating through Burbank. President Blanchard appointed Trustees Pollock, Forbes and Hogle a committee to look into the matter.

Adjourned.

BANGOR BROWNIES

One eighth cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 squares of chocolate, 2 eggs, ½ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup pecans broken in small pieces. Cream butter and sugar; add 2 eggs beaten (but not separated), the chocolate melted over hot water, the flour in which the baking powder has been sifted, and the nuts. Mix in the order given and spread in buttered dripping pan, one measuring about 14 inches by 9 inches being a good size to use. Cut in squares as soon as taken from the oven. In order to have them moist, be careful not to have them bake too long.

On the last day of school, prizes were distributed at Peter's school. When the little boy returned home the mother was entertaining callers.

"Well, Peter," asked one of the callers, "did you get a prize?"

"No, but I got horrible mention," replied Peter.—The Ledger.

Story by MR. HERBERT J. BLANCHARD

STORY

Once upon a time in a beautiful land dwelt a great man, Prosperity, and his wife, Happiness. At a great festival in his gardens was celebrated the betrothal of his beautiful daughter, Peace, and the gallant youth, Cosmos.

In the same household was a Fool, who wearied by the merry-making, laid himself down in a corner of the garden to rest. Here he is found by Rumor and, led on by her coaxing, he tells her a tale that is made as he talks, how his great patron's beautiful daughter sighs for a more bold, adventurous suitor, in fact the giant, death-dealing Chaos.

Rumor, in great glee, carries the tale, assisted by Gossip, Lies, Jealousy and Envy, to Vice and Greed, and finally to Chaos himself. Chaos, hearing of the beauty and grace of Peace, makes a vow he will win her for his own. Rumor now carries the story to Cosmos, who, believing her, turns to accuse Peace, when Jealousy steps between and Peace leaves him.

Cosmos in despair calls Love to his aid and determines that a monster like Chaos should not win a maid so virtuous as Peace. The Scientist, Philosopher, and Statesman offer their assistance, and Justice takes command. Both sides gather followers in preparation for the combat. Rumor in great glee spreads the news broadcast.

The Fool, realizing that he is responsible for the turmoil and strife, is seized with a fit of remorse and fright, and rushes madly into the midst of the fray and is buffeted from side to side. As he falls for the last time Charity spreads her veil over him.

Love and Good Thoughts come to the assistance of Cosmos, drive away Chaos and his followers, restore Happiness and Prosperity and reunite Peace and Cosmos.

A Boston woman was talking of Paris. The question of the relative courtesy of nations came up.

"Well, it would take a very good illustration to persuade me that any people beat the French," she remarked. "I'll give you an example. I was walking down the Champs Eylsees, and wanted to find a particular street, called the Rue de la Clochee. Not knowing just where to turn off into the side street, I asked a young Frenchman who passed me if he could direct me to it. He assured me, with a thousand pardons, he did not know. A few minutes later I heard hurrying feet behind me, and there was my Frenchman. 'Madame,' he said, sweeping off his hat and bowing profoundly, 'did not you ask me the way to the Rue de la Clochee? I was sorry that I did not know; but I have seen my brother and asked him, and I am sorry to inform you, madame, he did not know, either.' "—Boston Traveler.
